

Camber Aviation Management

We are much more than an aviation consultancy. At Camber Aviation Management we pride ourselves in delivering strategic advisory services and unique custom designed, world-class corporate and private aircraft. With clients across the world we bring an international perspective to every project and a deep understanding of local influences, expectations and requirements.

Our team has negotiated aircraft purchases, configured green aircraft, written detailed cabin specifications, drafted outfitting agreements, designed cabins, performed technical oversight, test flown, certified, operated and maintained aircraft from the world's most respected manufacturers including Airbus, Boeing, Bombardier, Dassault and Gulfstream. We have defined, managed and delivered complex aircraft cabin refurbishments and system upgrades to our discerning clients.

Each of our clients is unique and has different requirements. Many of our clients are simply seeking Camber's advisory services to make their operation more efficient and safer while lowering costs. A client may require an objective assessment on whether to upgrade and refurbish or replace their current aircraft. Another may not have the in-house skills to manage a complex corporate jet heavy maintenance input to ensure that schedule and budget expectations are met. While a third may require Camber's services to assess candidate aircraft, make recommendations and then negotiate the optimal purchase agreement.

We can provide these services discretely, professionally and when required.

Our first-hand experiences with a variety of manufacturers, suppliers and clients has allowed Camber Aviation to innovate, develop and refine knowledge-based processes, that are effective, efficient and ensure project success, on-time and budget and critically, when we are managing a complex aircraft completion, within weight guarantees.

Everyone in our team is highly responsive, dedicated to long-term relationships and client satisfaction. We are nimble, accessible and flexible committed to delivering outstanding quality with personalized service for your evolving aviation needs.

As a group of passionate experts, we want our client to receive outstanding value and we understand what it takes to produce award-winning results:

- assure utmost confidentiality and trusted rapport
- remain at the cutting edge of concept design and build
- deliver exceptional quality on time and budget
- project manage effectively and efficiently
- resolve the inevitable challenges of complex projects
- partner in complex acquisitions
- communicate regularly and succinctly
- build and maintain strong global relationships

Each member of our team has been involved with corporate aircraft for a minimum of fifteen years and has a licenced aircraft maintenance engineer licence and/or holds an advanced aviation degree. Together, we have over 145 years of aviation experience.

Camber Aviation Management is a leader in providing strategic advisory services and creating custom-designed, unique world-class corporate and private aircraft. We deliver exceptional quality, style and service to our exclusive clientele.

Our company ethos are traditional business values: knowledge, experience, innovation and trust.

We look forward to discussing our capabilities and the opportunity to demonstrating our abilities and professionalism on our first project together.
